

The Rising Stars of Miami Design

By Jean Nayar

Photography by Gary James | May 1, 2015 | Home & Real Estate

These design stars make Miami's interiors top notch.

Design Duo: Alison Antrobus & Ruby Ramirez

With an impressive project list that includes Icon Brickell and Prime 112 in Miami, Alison Antrobus and Ruby Ramirez have consistently been tapped as a creative force for major product manufacturers and design projects since they began partnering in 2011. The two met while working at the helm of the Miami office of the internationally acclaimed property and design development firm Yoo, which works with design stars Philippe Starck, Jade Jagger, Kelly Hoppen, and Marcel Wanders on multifaceted urban development projects such as the new 65-acre Metropica in Sunrise, Florida, as well as others in Mumbai, Singapore, Moscow, and Buenos Aires.

Though their training and experience are rooted in interior design—both are architects with award-winning residential, restaurant and hotel, retail, and private jet projects under their belts—each is applying her design skills to new realms. Antrobus is making a mark in the fashion world with her revolutionary patented handbag, called the Antrobus Bag, and Ramirez is fusing her love of artisanal craft and international travel in a jewelry collection she plans to launch later this year.

“Design is about creating a narrative and a sense of theater,” says Ramirez. “Theater for me is the emotion that carries you, that lingering impression and at times a sense of wonderment.”

Evidence of this idea will soon be seen in the common spaces of the Muse condominium, which they are currently working on in collaboration with building architect Carlos Ott, and the Palazzo del Sol on Fisher Island. Antrobus + Ramirez, 7636 NE Fourth Ct., Ste. 112, Miami, 786-420-2996

POPULAR POSTS

December 15, 2015

7 Festive Home Accessories That Aren't Cheesy

December 2, 2015

Why Local Residents Will Love Living in Jade Signature Sky Villas

December 1, 2015